AMERICAN RED CROSS DISTRIBUTE SUM OF $500,000

(By Associated Press.)
SHANGHAI, Jan. 28.—The Shanghai branch of the American Red Cross completed in December distribution of something over $500,000 worth of medical and hospital supplies to missions, dispensaries and hospitals in all parts of China. The goods given away in China were left behind in Siberia when the American Red Cross was withdrawn, consisting of 3305 cases of drugs, about a shipload, that were shipped from Vladivostok to Shanghai in the summer months.

In order that a basis might be set for a systematic analysis of the requirements of hospitals in China, and so that the distribution might be equitable, questionnaires were sent out by the Shanghai Red Cross and based on returns from 1000 a chart was prepared which gave a history and description of the distribution.

In all, 409 shipments went forward to various parts of China. Of the 251 hospitals and institutions that received them, 232 were non-American and 118 were American. The distribution was made regardless of nationality or creed and hundreds of boxes of the Shanghai Red Cross have received attest the urgent need of the things given, particularly at this time when owing to fluctuations of exchange and other causes, working hospitals of hospitals have been seriously impaired.

Among the supplies shipped were 20 complete sets of surgical instruments, the majority of which had not been obtained in China markets, and other things sent included various kinds of cotton and bandages, surgical dressings, blankets, garments, sterilizers, microscopes and drugs. All expenses and charges for forwarding the supplies were borne by the China central committee of the Red Cross.

MANY FOREIGN SAILORS DESERT IN AMERICA

(By Associated Press.)

The local agents declare that deserters from vessels flying foreign flags are beyond the reach of the United States immigration authorities. If the sailor, upon being taken into custody by those authorities, states that he intends to sail on the "first available ship," the immigration officers have no alternative, under the seaman's act, but to free him. ## PUBLIC WELFARE THEME IN SPEECH OF CAL. COOLIDGE

(By Associated Press.)
ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 28.—Calvin Coolidge, vice-president elect, addressing the southern tariff conference last night, said that in a determination of the economic policy of the country "the sole object to be sought is the public welfare." He defended the protective tariff but said there would need to be a careful survey of the field in order to determine what application of former policy can be made to existing conditions in order best to provide for the public welfare.

"Geographical divisions and sectional things have been swept away," said Mr. Coolidge. "The just pride of the north and the south, the east and the west, is everywhere submerged in the overwhelming sentiment of a yet greater pride that we are all Americans. The outstanding result of the recent national election was more than partisan, it was the unalterable determination of our country to be and remain in all things thoroughly American."

"We have not been given a mandate of omnipotence. We have not been entrusted with world sponsorship. But we have an inheritance of obligation of responsibility, or duty, to the United States. This conception of our paramount responsibility is in no sense a denial of international relationships for primarily a recognition of national entity and national duty. We subscribe to the creed of world brotherhood, but we recognize that we can serve the world best by serving America first."

"Steady progress is being made toward industrial revival and soon the old struggle of international competition will again confront us. In fact, it has already begun. The problem with which we are confronted and to the solution of which our southern tariff congress can materially contribute, is to prevent industrial isolation and industrial submergence on the other."

"Your forefathers acknowledged the right of America to protect itself against the dictation and domination of any foreign power and they fought with our forefathers for the independence of the United States. The independence which they sought was not merely independence of foreign kings and foreign cabinets. They sought also independence from commercial thrall."

"The economic life of the country is made up of private business enterprises and the public consists of aggregation of private individuals. So it is no criticism of protection that benefits private business and private individuals. That must be the result as that is the object sought. But protection should be given in such manner that broadly speaking the benefit received by any private interest should not be disproportionate to the increased public service which that private interest renders by reason of the benefits derived from such protection."

"We have a great diversity of interests which are all entitled to consideration. This will require a very careful adjustment in making that adjustment all must remember that each must support the other in the long run all are interdependent."

"The real concern of the nation is not merely in the erecting of great factories. It is in the building of manhood and womanhood. The interest of the government in industrial policies is primarily in national revenue, national defense and the welfare of the people. The greatest revenue comes from the greatest production, not the greatest imports. National defense depends upon the skill of our people and the diversity of our industries. The welfare of the people depends upon opportunities for employment and our ability to pay good wages."

"These are the objects toward which the nation should direct its industrial policy. These are the objects toward the consummation of which the whole nation invites the welcome and effective co-operation of the south."
